

Mini-Assessment for Who Was Marco Polo? by Joan Holub and The Adventures of Marco Polo by Russell Freedman

This grade 5 mini-assessment focuses on two non-fiction excerpts from previously published books for children. The texts were selected through the use of both quantitative and qualitative analyses so that they align with Common Core State Standards' expectations for quality and complexity. Assessments aligned to the CCSS will employ texts such as these. The two excerpts in this mini-assessment include:

- Who Was Marco Polo? By Joan Holub (744 words)
- The Adventures of Marco Polo by Russell Freedman (273 words)

Not all questions included in the set refer to both texts, given that it is necessary for students to read and understand each text independently as they are synthesizing across texts.

Questions aligned to the CCSS should be worthy of students' time to answer and are therefore do not focus on minor points of the texts. Several standards may be addressed within the same question because complex texts tend to yield rich test items that call for deep analysis. In this mini-assessment there are six questions that address the Reading Standards below and one Constructed Response question. We encourage educators to give students the time that they need to read closely and write to sources; it's expected that students will take around 45 minutes to complete the entire task.

The seven questions align to the following standards:

|               |   |
|---------------|---|
| RI.5.1 | Quote accurately from a text when explaining what the text says explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.   |
| RI.5.2 | Determine two or more main ideas of a text and explain how they are supported by key details; summarize the text.   |
| RI.5.3 | Explain the relationships or interactions between two or more individuals, events, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text based on specific information in the text. |
| RI.5.4 | Determine the meaning of general academic and domain-specific words and phrases in a text relevant to a grade 5 topic or subject area.  |
| RI.5.5 | Compare and contrast the overall structure (e.g., chronology, comparison, cause/effect, problem/solution) of events, ideas, concepts, or information in two or more texts.                      |
| RI.5.6 | Analyze multiple accounts of the same event or topic, noting important similarities and differences in the point of view they represent.  |
| RI.5.7 | Draw on information from multiple print or digital sources, demonstrating the ability to locate an answer to a question quickly or to solve a problem efficiently.                              |
| RI.5.8 | Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text, identifying which reasons and evidence support which point(s).  |
| RI.5.9 | Integrate information from several texts on the same topic in order to write or speak about the subject knowledgeably.  |
| W.5.1  | Write opinion pieces on topics or texts, supporting a point of view with reasons and information.   |

Grade 5 Mini-Assessment – “Marco Polo”

Today you will read two texts about Marco Polo. You will then answer several questions. I will be happy to answer questions about the directions, but I will not help you with the answers to any questions. You will notice as you answer the questions that some of the questions have two parts. You need to answer Part A of the question before you answer Part B.

This mini-assessment is not timed, but I believe that you should be able to complete it in about 45 minutes.

Now read “Who Was Marco Polo?” and “The Adventures of Marco Polo” and answer the seven questions. I encourage you to write notes in the margin as you read the passages.

Text 1: Excerpt from Chapter 11 of Who Was Marco Polo? by Joan Holub

Introduction: Marco Polo lived in Italy more than seven hundred and fifty years ago. He is famous for traveling to China and back (more than 11,000 miles) and recording his adventures in a book. He said he spent many years with Kublai Khan, a powerful ruler in that part of the world. Marco Polo’s book became a source of trouble for him, and people have argued about it since it was written.

Obtain a copy of Who Was Marco Polo? By Joan Holub and start the excerpt on page 96 with the sentence, “Most historians this Marco Polo did go to China..” and label this a paragraph 1. Number each of the following paragraphs numerically. The last paragraph in the excerpt is the only paragraph on page 98 that starts with the sentence, “Marco Polo was sixty-nine years old...” Label this final paragraph in the excerpt with the number 12.

Text 2: from Adventures of Marco Polo by Russell Freedman

Introduction: This excerpt begins by pointing out issues that people continue to argue about, even hundreds of years after Polo's book was published.

1 These skeptics<sup>1</sup> question Marco's silence about many things in the China of his own era. Why, they ask, does he never mention the Great Wall? Why doesn't he say a single word about chopsticks or tea . . .?

2 Marco's defenders point out that the Great Wall as we know it today, with its sides and parapets<sup>2</sup> built out of brick and stone, wasn't all that great in Marco's time. That wall wasn't built until more than two centuries later. Marco may have seen the remains of a less impressive earthen wall, built 1400 years before he reached China. By the time he arrived, most of that original wall had fallen down.

3 Then why doesn't he mention chopsticks? As an aide to Kublai Khan, Marco spent much of his time with the Mongols, Persians, and other foreigners who made up the Khan's court. When eating with them, he probably used a knife to slice meat at the table, thereby disgusting the Chinese, who confined such acts to the kitchen. And he must have eaten everything else with his hands, rather than chopsticks, according to Mongol custom.

4 As for tea, Marco spent most of his time in North and Central China, where teahouses had not yet become common. And as a traveler from Italy, famous for its wines, he may not have had much interest in tea. He does mention, and often praises, many kinds of Chinese wines and spirits made from rice, wheat, grapes, plums, dates, and palm-tree sap...

QUESTIONS

1. The following question has two parts. Answer part A and then answer part B.

Part A:

In paragraph 4 of “Who Was Marco Polo?”, the author states that an exaggeration became known as a “marco polo.” What is the meaning of the word exaggeration?

- A. a misunderstanding of factual information
- B. a long journey completed over several years
- C. an individual who does exciting and interesting things
- D. a statement that things are bigger or better than they are

Part B: Which phrases from paragraphs 3 and 4 of “Who Was Marco Polo?” best help the reader determine the meaning of exaggeration? [Choose two.]

- A. didn’t know much
- B. strange lands
- C. too incredible
- D. the nickname
- E. another phrase
- F. wild stories
- G. make the crowds laugh

2. The following question has two parts. Answer part A and then answer part B.

Part A: Based on “Who Was Marco Polo?”, what inference can be made about the importance of historical documents in relation to Marco Polo’s book?

- A. Marco Polo used historical documents to make his book accurate.
- B. Historical documents provide information people can use to decide if Marco Polo was telling the truth.
- C. Historical documents helped Marco Polo and other explorers of his time travel to new places.
- D. Marco Polo’s purpose for writing a book was to provide Kublai Khan with historical documents.

Part B: In the text, circle the paragraph that provides evidence for the answer you chose above.

3. “Who Was Marco Polo?” gives reasons that Marco Polo may have been truthful in his book and also gives reasons that he may not have been truthful. The headings in the chart below list these two different ideas. Complete each row of the chart by writing facts and details from the text to support each idea. The first row has been done for you.

| Evidence from the text that Marco Polo may have told the truth in his book   | Evidence from the text that Marco Polo may not have told the truth in his book          |
|--|---|
| But a list of his belongings around the time of death suggests that he did leave behind one of Kublai Khan’s gold tablets. | He said the Chinese city of Hangchow had twelve thousand bridges, but it had far fewer. |

4. In the excerpt from “Adventures of Marco Polo,” the author mentions one piece of actual evidence from Polo’s book that may prove Marco actually did spend time in China. Circle the sentence in the excerpt that best supports the author’s claim that Polo was telling the truth about his visit to China.

5. In paragraph 1 of the excerpt from “The Adventures of Marco Polo,” what is the meaning of the word “mention”?

- A. question
- B. believe
- C. think about
- D. talk about

6. Which statement best summarizes the authors’ points of view in the two texts?

- A. The author of “Who Was Marco Polo?” feels strongly that Polo exaggerated his claims, while the author of “The Adventures of Marco Polo” is confident that Polo was being truthful.
- B. The author of “Who Was Marco Polo?” implies that Polo’s book was meant to be a work of fiction, while the author of “The Adventures of Marco Polo” implies the book is factual.
- C. Both authors explain why Polo’s books may seem inaccurate but may actually provide proof of his claims.
- D. Both authors are doubtful that Polo took a trip to China, much less experienced what he claims in his book.

Writing Prompt:

7. Using information from both sources, write an essay in which you provide an opinion that either Marco Polo told the truth in his book or that Marco Polo made up his stories. Your audience is classmates from your history class who have learned about Marco Polo. Be sure to use information from either one or both of the texts to support your opinion. Write your essay in the space below.

Information for Teachers: Quantitative and Qualitative Analyses of the Texts

Regular practice with complex texts is necessary to prepare students for college and career readiness. The excerpts for this mini-assessment have been identified as suitably complex for students in grade 5. Appendix A and the Supplement to Appendix A: New Research on Text Complexity in the CCSS provide a two-step, research-based process for selecting complex texts that help to explain why these texts meet the expectations for grade 5 text complexity in Reading Standard 10. The process is described below:

1. Place a text or excerpt within a grade-band based on at least one<sup>3</sup> quantitative measure according to the research-based conversion table provided in the Supplement to Appendix A: New Research on Text Complexity (www.corestandards.org/resources).
2. Place a text or excerpt at a grade-level based on a qualitative analysis

| Quantitative data forText 1: "Who Was Marco Polo?" | Quantitative Measure #1  | Quantitative Measure #2   |
|---|--|---|
|   | Flesch-Kincaid: 6.3 ( middle to high end of 4 th – 5 th grade) | Lexile: 800 (high end of 2 nd -3 rd grade, low end of 4 th -5 th grade) |

Quantitative Analysis:

| Common Core Band                   | ATOS          | Degrees of Reading Power® | Flesch-Kincaid <sup>s</sup> | The Lexile Framework® | Reading Maturity | SourceRater   |
|------------------------------------|---------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------|------------------|---------------|
| 2 nd – 3 rd  | 2.75 – 5.14   | 42 – 54                   | 1.98 – 5.34                 | 420 – 820             | 3.53 – 6.13      | 0.05 – 2.48   |
| 4 th – 5 th  | 4.97 – 7.03   | 52 – 60                   | 4.51 – 7.73                 | 740 – 1010            | 5.42 – 7.92      | 0.84 – 5.75   |
| 6 th – 8 th  | 7.00 – 9.98   | 57 – 67                   | 6.51 – 10.34                | 925 – 1185            | 7.04 – 9.57      | 4.11 – 10.66  |
| 9 th – 10 th | 9.67 – 12.01  | 62 – 72                   | 8.32 – 12.12                | 1050 – 1335           | 8.41 – 10.81     | 9.02 – 13.93  |
| 11 th – CCR             | 11.20 – 14.10 | 67 – 74                   | 10.34 – 14.2                | 1185 – 1385           | 9.57 – 12.00     | 12.30 – 14.50 |

As shown above, different quantitative measures will sometimes yield results that are not exactly the same in regard to grade-band placement. However, much can be learned from where the measures overlap. In this case, the measures overlap at the grade 4-5 bands.

<sup>3</sup> For higher-stakes tests, it is recommended that two corresponding text complexity measures be used to place a text in a grade-band. When two measures are used, both placing the text in the same band, the results provide additional assurance that the text selected is appropriate for the band.

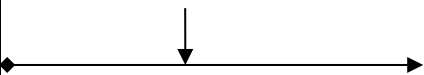

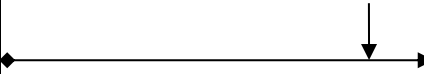

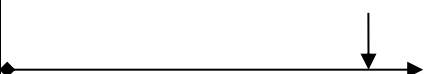

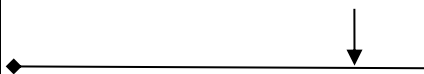

| Category   | Qualitative Analysis for "Who Was Marco Polo?"  | Where to place within the band?   |                   |        |       |                             |
|--|--|---|-------------------|--------|-------|-----------------------------|
|  |  | Early-mid 4   | end 4-early 5 | Mid- 5 | End 5 | NOTsuitedtoband |
| Structure: (both story structure or form of piece)           | This informational text presents a question in the first paragraph and then providing evidence to help determine what the answer is to the question. It's moderately complex in that two opposing views are presented: Polo was or was not telling the truth.  |    |                   |        |       |                             |
| Language Clarity and Conventions (including vocabulary load) | Most of the vocabulary is either on grade level or well explained through the use of context, though there are many proper nouns that might present a challenge for some students. The majority of sentences are simple or compound.   |    |                   |        |       |                             |
| Knowledge Demands (life, content, cultural/literary)         | The text presents a moderate demand on knowledge. Even if a student has never heard of Polo, he or she is provided with enough information within the text to discover who he was and what he is known for. However, students must know that travel was limited and trying during Polo's era.  |    |                   |        |       |                             |
| Levels of Meaning/ Purpose                                   | The purpose of the text is to establish who Polo was, what he claimed, and what evidence is present to determine if he claim is true. This singular purpose helps make the text accessible, even to lower students.  |    |                   |        |       |                             |
| Overall placement:                                    | Justification (what trumped)As supported by both the quantitative data and this analysis, this text is appropriately complex for Gr 5 students. It is paired with a text that is on the high end of both methods of analysis, so it is acceptable that this text is moderately complex for Grade 5.Assessment level: |  |                   |        |       |                             |

|  |   | Too low for grade band   | early to mid 4 | mid 4 to low 5 | mid to end 5 | NOT suited to band |
| Structure (both story structure or form of piece)            | The structure of the text is slightly complex. The information is given primarily in a question and answer format, with the relationship between each question and the main idea fairly clear.  |   |                |                |              |                    |

| Knowledge Demands (life, content, cultural/literary)         | The knowledge demands are very complex, as readers may be unfamiliar with the Great Wall, Mongols, teahouses, palm-tree sap, etc.   |   |                |                |              |                    |
| Levels of Meaning/ Purpose                                   | The purpose of this text is very complex for the grade level. The purpose is implied in the first sentence, when the author mentions skeptics, but the student does not find out until the next paragraph that the author intends to counter several arguments given by skeptics and then present evidence that Polo made the trip. |   |                |                |              |                    |

Question Annotations & Correct Answer and Distractor Rationales

| Question Number | Correct Answer(s) | Standards      | Rationales for Answer Options   |
|-----------------|-------------------|----------------|---|
| 1 Part A        | D                 | RI.5.4, RI.5.1 | Option A: “A misunderstanding of factual information” implies there is some confusion on the part of the listener/reader, but an exaggeration is an act on the part of the speaker/writer that shows he or she is deliberately not telling the whole truth. Option B: “A long journey taken over several years” describes Polo’s trip rather than his possible stretching of the truth. Option C: “An individual who does exciting and interesting things” describes Polo’s life rather than the possibility he didn’t tell the truth. Option D: This is the correct answer. “A statement that things are bigger or better than they are” is the definition of the word “exaggeration.” When one makes an exaggeration, one is misrepresenting what really happened, or exaggerating.   |
| 1 Part B        | C and F           |                | Option A: “Didn’t know much” does not help explain exaggeration. In the context of these paragraphs, the term is used to describe the people of the world at the time, not Polo or his possible exaggerations. Option B: “Strange lands” does not help explain exaggeration. It tells where Polo most likely traveled and how his stories originated. Option C: This is a correct answer. The term “too incredible” is used to describe Polo’s stories and to explain that they didn’t seem believable. Instead, they seem to be exaggerations. Option D: “The nickname” does not help explain exaggeration. The term implies that Marco earned such a reputation for his exaggerations that he earned a negative nickname that made fun of him. Option E: “Another phrase” does not help explain exaggeration. The term introduces the fact that exaggeration is a phrase but does not help explain what that phrase means. Option F: This is a correct answer. “Wild stories” helps the reader know that exaggerations involve claims that may be overstated or “wild.” Option G: “Make the crowds laugh” does not help explain exaggeration. The term describes the effect of some exaggerations rather than defining what the word means. |
| 2 Part A        | B                 | RI.5.3, RI.5.1 | Option A: Marco Polo did not cite historical documents to make his book accurate. Instead, the book served as a historical record for later explorers. Option B: This is the correct answer. The author states that historical documents of the time Polo was supposedly exploring China help researchers decide if Polo was being truthful. Option C: The author does not imply that Polo and other explorers of his time used existing historical documents to help them travel. Polo, instead, used the knowledge previously gathered by his father’s experiences. Option D: Although Polo may have recorded some history for the Khan while Polo worked for the ruler, he wrote his book later after returning home so he could document his story, not to provide the Khan with historical documents.  |
| 2 Part B        | Paragraph 9       |                | Paragraph 9 supports the inference that historical documents from China prove that Polo’s name was mentioned, so this may prove that his claim of working for the Khan is true.  |

|                 | POSSIBLE ANSWER: People also wonder why his book doesn't mention the Chinese custom of tea drinking. This may be because tea was most popular in southern China. Marco spent most of his time in northern China.   | POSSIBLE ANSWER: But there wasn't enough food near the battlefield for so many troops, nor enough grass to feed that many horses.   |                              | Evidence from the text that Marco Polo may have told the truth in his book   | Evidence from the text that Marco Polo may not have told the truth in his book  |
|                 |  |   |                              | Rationale: The author offers this evidence to explain that just because Polo doesn't mention tea doesn't mean he was lying.   | Rationale: The author offers this as evidence that Polo had to be exaggerating about the number of soldiers and horses he recorded.  |
|                 | POSSIBLE ANSWER: As he was dying, his friends begged him to confess the truth and say that he'd been lying. He refused. His answer to them is now famous. He told them, "I never told half of what I saw."   | POSSIBLE ANSWER: When he died he didn't leave his family a great fortune. That makes his stories about going to China seem false.   |                              | Rationale: The author offers this fact as evidence that Polo, even when dying, stood by his book. Therefore, he may have been being truthful in his account.  | Rationale: The author implies that if Polo was being honest about the jewels he supposedly brought back from China, he would have had money to leave to his family when he died. But because he didn't leave them a fortune, he may not have been telling the truth. |
|                 | POSSIBLE ANSWER: Today, some people wonder why he didn't write about the Great Wall of China in his book. Maybe it didn't amaze him. Much of it had been destroyed by the 1200s. It was rebuilt and lengthened when the Ming family ruled China from 1368 to 1644. | POSSIBLE ANSWER: He claimed there were magicians in Kublai Khan's empire who could make glasses of wine fly. He said they could change day into night and could also turn a sunny day into a rainy one. |                              | Rationale: The author offers this evidence that just because Polo didn't mention the Great Wall doesn't mean he wasn't in China, it's just that the wall wasn't all that great at the time he visited.  | Rationale: The author offers this as evidence that because these things cannot really happen, Polo wasn't being totally truthful in his book.  |
|                 |  | POSSIBLE ANSWER: Marco wrote that he was the governor of a Chinese city name Yang-Chou for three years. Yet he never described his job.   |                              |   | Rationale: The author offers this as evidence that Polo may not have been truthful because if he was governor, surely he would have told more about the position as he wrote his book.   |
| 4               | He does mention, and often praises, many kinds of Chinese wines and spirits made from rice, wheat, grapes, plums, dates, and palm-tree sap.  |   |                              | The author includes this sentence as proof that perhaps Polo was being truthful about his time in China. Polo most likely would not have known about the Chinese wines and spirits made from different kinds of produce unless he'd actually been there.  |  |
